NO. 30.

HENDERSON CO. POOL SELLS

To Imperial Co. Seven Cents for Two Millions of Fired And Six for 1-2 Million Unfired

DELIVERIES BEGAN TUES.

Two and one half million pounds of the Henderson County Tobacco Pool the entire holdings of that organization, were sold Saturday afternoon to the Imperial Tobacco Co. Deliveries began Tuesday morning Jan. 28. The price accepted by the board was 7 cents for 2,000,000 lbs. of fired tobacco, and 6 1-2 cents for 500,000 pounds of unfired tobacco.

BOARD CALLED IN SESSION

General Manager J. Stokes Taylor called the board in session Saturday afternoon to consider two bids for the crop. The board, composed of the following members: First district, Jas. Connelly; second, J. Stokes Taylor; third, W. E. Griffin; fourth, Richard Crafton; fifth, W. H. Negley; sixth, Seth T. Farley; seventh, S. P. Griffin; eighth, Ellis Sowards.

HODGE BID REFUSED.

The bid of John Hodge & Co., who offered 6 1-2 cents for all of the tobacco on delivery at factory door was refused. Hodge agreed to prize the tobacco purchased and charge $2.25 per 100 pounds on all stripped tobacco and $1.75 per hundred pounds on all leaf. Then all the prized tobacco be shipped to England and sold and the proceeds to recoup Hodge and Co. his 6 1-2 cents average and the handling charges, also 4 percent. commission for selling, and the excess, if any, to be divided among the members of the pool.

The offer of the Imperial Co. was accepted by unanimous vote. Two graders will be appointed Monday by Manager Taylor, and all tobacco will be received beginning Tuesday morning at Imperial factory No. 1, corner Water and Third Streets.

NO ARBITRATION.

The contracts read that in event dirty, damaged or hail beaten tobacco is delivered unless a price can be agreed upon by the grader and the receiver, then the owner may take the tobacco to some other buyer, and should he get no better price he will have the privilege of returning and accepting the price fixed by the grader and receiver.

BIG RUSH EXPECTED.

Manager Taylor stated that he advised the owners of dirty, damaged or hail beaten tobacco not to bring it to the city until later in the week, as he anticipated such a rush the first three or four days the graders and receivers would have no time to attend to justifying a satisfactory price on this character of weed. He said the majority of members of the pool had their crops stripped and ready for the market, and that he would not be surprised to see hundreds of loads in the city early Tuesday morning.

MISS MAYME HAYNES WINS MEDAL

Friday Evening at the Auditorium in the Girls Annual Declamatory Contest.

GIRLS DESERVE CREDIT.

The annual declamatory contest at the school auditorium Friday evening Jan. 24th, was the occasion of a great gathering of the friends and admirers of the six young ladies who had volunteered to enter the contest. We are indeed proud to say that not a friend of any of the girls who appeared before the footlights had any cause to feel otherwise than proud of their favorites for indeed each one acquitted herself admirably and no citizen of Marion, no matter how little interest he might have in the individuals in the arena, could not have felt other than proud that his city could produce such girls. The program as announced in these columns last week was carried out, each one of the fair contestants being roundly encored. The judges admitted 'twas a difficult task to decide and Rev. Price in making the speech awarding the medal to Miss Mamie Haynes gave each of those defeated complimentary notice and this with the flowers and congratulations which all received must have taken away entirely the momentary sting of defeat.

BOY CHAMPION ASPHYXIATED

Lester Bryant, who Won Prize as Corn Grower, Found Dead in Room at Washington.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The body of Lester Bryant, the Kentucky champion corn grower, who died yesterday from the effects of gas, was taken in charge by officials of Department of Agriculture, who are greatly distressed over the affair.

It will be sent to Kentucky for burial. Bryant, who was 15 years old, was found dead on the floor of his room at 201 Delaware Avenue, death evidently resulting from escaping gas. The odor of gas was detected by others in the house and was traced to the room occupied by Bryant.

When the door was broken down he was found on the floor, where, the police believe, he had fallen while trying to get out of the room. It is thought, Bryant on retiring at night may blown out the gas instead of turning it off.

Bryant came to Washington Sunday from Rockfield, Ky.

From a button in the lapel of his coat it was ascertained that he was member of the Boys' Corn Club, which is spending a week in Washington. He was one of the prize winners in the corn growing contest conducted by the Department of Agriculture.

He was accompanied to Louisville by his father, W. E. Bryant. A Louisville man had given the prize in a desire to promote the agricultural welfare of the state. Bryant had received $300 in profits and prizes. He had succeeded in producing 149 bushels of corn to one acre at a profit of $70.30. In addition to the trip to Washington, he had been given

NEW CHAIRMAN AND SECRETARY

Elected By The Democratic Precinctmen—W. R. Cruce, chm. R. F. Wheeler, Sec'y.

TWO GOOD DEMOCRATS.

Persuant to the call of Chairman Maxwell, the democrats met at their voting places in the different precincts, Saturday the 18th, and elected the following men to serve on the committee: Marion, No. 1 J. F. Dorrah, " " 2. S. B. Holloman, " " 3. W. U. Howerton, " " 4. R. F. Wheeler, " " 5. W. B. Binkley, Francis, " " W. O. Wicker, Union, " " J. B. Carter, Tolu, " " W. E. Dowell, Fords Ferry, " " W. E. Curry, Piney, " " J. A. Stenbridge, Shady Grove, " " R. L. Wood.

The following Monday the newly elected met in Maxwell's office to reorganize. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Maxwell who asked that they elect someone else as chairman. Mr. Clem Nunn asked that they elect some other man as secretary.

With W. O. Wicker in the chair the Committee proceeded to organize by electing W. R. Cruce, chairman, and R. F. Wheeler, secretary.

Death of Rev. Joiner.

Rev. Joiner, a well known Methodist minister of Hartford, died Wednesday afternoon after a short illness, death being due to paralysis. Rev. Joiner was the father of Misses Mary and Margaret Joiner, teachers in the Madisonville graded schools. The young ladies were called home Wednesday on account of their father's illness. Mrs. L. R. Ray and Miss Louise Walker are teaching during their absence. Rev. Wimberly left Thursday to be present at the funeral services today.—Madisonville Hustler.

Rev. T. V. Joiner well known and beloved here, where he was pastor of the Methodist Church for several years, about 10 years ago, died last Wednesday at Hartford, Ky., where he and his family resided. He suffered a stroke of paralysis at the breakfast table and lived only a few hours, expiring at two o'clock in the afternoon. His remains were laid to rest at Oakwood cemetery in Hartford. Rev. Joiner was 55 years of age and is survived by his wife and 7 children.

His last visit to Marion was on the occasion of the dedication of the new Methodist church at which time he was the guest of his friends Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Orme.

CRAYNE HAS LARGE FIRE

Binkley's Blacksmith Shop and Grist Mill Totally Destroyed Sunday Morning.

Sunday morning the grist mill and blacksmith shop of W. B. Binkley at Crayne, were burned by a fire of unknown origin which originated in the engine room, where the gasoline engine was located.

THE CRITTENDEN ATHENEUM CLUB

In The Stegar Building, Renovated And Beautified, is Now Quite Attractive.

THE "PRIDE OF MARION."

The Crittenden Atheneum has made many improvements to the interior of their club room, in way of new linoleum on the floor of the pool and billiard room, new druggist on ladies' cloak room which has been arranged at the head of the stairs, and has cloak hooks and nice mirrored washstand and other accessories. New cushions and cover have been put on the pool table which adds much to its efficiency. All together the club rooms are a nice place for the young folks and their chaperones to meet, but should not be allowed ever to interfere with other duties or obligations. The young men who suggested the bazaar the profits of which enabled them to make all these nice improvements are to be commended. Our people should continue to encourage the attendance at the club rooms, for while many towns have saloons, gambling dens, blind tigers and other places worse if possible, than those named, to entice the young men, Marion has a refined and in fact an elegant and home like club where a boy may go with his sister, sweet heart or mother and be sure of no contaminating influences. Harm of course can be made of any thing or place. Even that institution, the Christian home where only love and virtue should reign, is sometimes turned into a hell on earth as we see reported almost daily in our exchanges.

PROF. SNYDER TO GET BETTER JOB

Will Be With The Redpath Lyceum Bureau, of Chicago, At Twice His Present Salary.

IS QUITE A FAVORITE HERE

There has been general regret expressed at the decision of Prof. J. U. Snyder to discontinue teaching here at the end of the present term. He has been offered and has accepted the position as manager of the Redpath Lyceum Bureau which has been presenting the splendid attractions at the auditorium here each season for several years. The contract is for 15 months and the salary to begin with is double what he now receives. He will have territory in the north and in Michigan during the summer and in the fall will travel in the southern states. His daily companions will be the best lecturers artists and musicians in the world. His contract specifies an increase of $300 each year for four years above original salary which is best ever paid by the Bureau for new man without experience. Lyceum people who have been in Marion recommended Prof. Snyder and put the Bureau in communication with him. The Prof. is certainly to be congratulated and has the best wishes of his friends here.

HORSEMEN RIDE INTO WAVERLY.

And Requested I. C. Agent Not To Ship Non-Pooled Tobacco.

Waverly, Ky., January 28.—Intense excitement prevailed in Waverly this afternoon when seventy-five or eighty men rode into the city and headed toward the Illinois Central station, where they called out Fred Irvin, local agent. It was learned that the men were tobacco poolers from Webster county, and they advised the agent not to contract for the shipment of non-pooled tobacco. The agent is said to have replied that he would have to ship the tobacco. The spokesman of the crowd replied, is it reported, that if he did he would be visited by a much larger delegation.

S. B. Hughes, Dead.

Twin Brother of J. B. Hughes, of This City.

Samuel B. Hughes was born in Smith county, Tenn. Jan. 6, 1853 At the age of 6, with his father, moved to Crittenden county, Ky where he spent most of his life having lived a few months, each, in Paducah, Ky., and Sikeston, Mo.

He professed faith in Christ, in the Fall of 1888 and united with the Baptist Church, at Crooked Creek, where he remained a member until death.

Married to Miss Margaret E. Flanary, Feb. 6 1884.

To this union was born two children, Ina May and Everett. Everett died at about two years of age. Ina May lives at Sikeston, Mo. He departed this life Jan. 28

FOUR HUNDRED NON-POOLERS

Of Hopkins County Unanimously Agreed to Stand Pat for Eight Cents Average.

FOR THEIR 1912 CROP

MADISONVILLE, Ky. Jan. 28 Four hundred non-poolers of Hopkins county at the court house agreed this afternoon unanimously to stand pat for eight cents average for the 1912 crop and took a stand for a cut out this year if the tobacco buyers do not pay the price demanded.

A resolution was passed recommending that the Stemming District Tobacco Association and the Farmers Union, the organizations operating in the tobacco belt, come to an agreement on price and delivery and not compete with each other. The resolution stated that such action would undoubtedly aid the farmers in securing a fair price for their product and the non-poolers at the meeting pledged themselves to sign up with one or the other of the two organizations in event such an agreement was signed by the two farmers' organizations.

A committee composed of Bradley Wilson, W. L. Harris and Robert Quirey, as appointed to solicit non-poolers to sign the pledge of the Stemming District association and to hold these until the two organizations had united on some sort of protection on price and delivery in event of which those signing the pledges will become members of the association. An organization was formed to canvass the county for pledges of this nature and a prominent non-pooler made the prediction that a large majority of non-poolers would sign it. Fifty "dumpers" signed it at the meeting.

A number of strong talks were made and it was the consensus of opinion that every non-pooler should hold out for eight cents and those present voted unanimously in favor of a resolution to this effect, virtually binding themselves not to sell for less.

Rev. Cummins to Cross the Ocean.

—The Pan-Presbyterian council, representing all the Presbyterians of the world, and which meets but once every four years, holds its next session in Aberdeen, Scotland, in June of this year. The general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church last May, selected between twenty-five and thirty delegates to that council taken from the ministers and ruling elders. It has just leaked out here that Rev. Thomas Cummins, D. D., pastor of the First church of this city, is one of the delegates to the Aberdeen council.—Gleaner.

He is survived by a wife, one daughter, one sister and six brothers. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. M. E. Miller, at the new Cemetery, interment taking place Jan. 24.

Notice to All Road Hands.

On motion at a special term of Fiscal court of Jan. 7, 1913, it was ordered that the roads of Crittenden county be worked by hands to be warned in by the County Road Engineer, or his assistants, and all able bodied male citizens of the county over the age of 18 years and under the age of 70 years, except licensed ministers of the gospel and citizens of incorporated towns and cities, are required to provide themselves with necessary tools and implements, and to work on public roads of the county, not exceeding two days in a week and six days in each year, provided, however that any road hand may pay to the county engineer, the sum of three dollars, ($3.00) on or before the 1st day of June, of any year, and upon payment of said sum, he will thereby be released from work upon the road during the said year. The County Road Engineer shall immediately pay over said sum so paid to him, to the county treasurer, who shall place same to the credit of road fund, and same shall be applied and used in the employment of graders, plows, and teams and hands to work upon the roads of the county when needed. And said treasurer shall keep a separate account of such funds from that paid to him by the sheriff.

In employing hands to work upon said roads the County Engineer shall pay the prevailing wages in the neighborhood where said work is done, not however, to exceed $1.50 nor less than $1.00 per day, for each day of eight hours. In view of this fact I am now prepared to give receipts to all who want to pay.

HOW MIDWAY CAME TO LIFE

A $20,000 Investment on Its Boys and Girls.

IN MODERN SCHOOLHOUSE.

The Town Began Three Years Ago to Realize the Importance of Conserving Its Future Citizens' Health and Mentality—Plenty of Room to Play.

Many rural communities feel that any building and any grounds will do for school purposes. These communities have never thought definitely how far they have progressed in so many other lines. The average man will say when you press him for a reason for the new school equipment in his neighborhood: "Well, that school was good enough for me, and I reckon it's good enough for my children." His own home, his farming implements, his turns and all else in his life have changed from a "tallow candle and homemade hall" age to an "electric light and a steam thrasher" age.

Three years ago Midway and the surrounding country began to think it was time to have a twentieth century school plant. They began to feel that it would be well to have a building as good as any of their churches. At first the general public shook its head and mumbled under its breath, but gradually it began to see the wisdom of the movement and at last voted the funds necessary.

While the trustees planned a school that should be a credit architecturally, they did not forget to buy enough ground to give the energetic youngsters that were to be trained ample elbow room. The beautiful building stands well back from the turnpike on five acres of fine blue grass land. Behind and to one side of the school building is a comfortable stable stabled to hold twenty-four horses.

As is usual in school affairs all over the country, the trustees built this school with an idea of its taking care of all the pupils in the district for the next fifty years. Now, after only two and a half years, they are beginning to see the natural result of a fine growing school spirit among both children and parents. Today five grade and two high school teachers manage to teach the 250 boys and girls that are enrolled. This number is just fifty more than were enrolled last year. It is now plain that the school will have to add a new teacher each year to take care of the steady increase, and in five more years an addition will have to be built to take care of the children. Besides this yearly increase, the trustees claim that very few of those enrolled even try to play truant. Ample play grounds, clean, warm schoolrooms, comfortable single desks, light and pleasant surroundings make school going less like some, and the incentive for "playing out" has been removed.

Several schools rolled into one make many things possible. It allows the school fund to pay for a reliable janitor, who can heat, clean and care for the property as it should be cared for.

MIDWAY'S SUCCESS.

It provides teachers for the different grades and makes efficient and strong work. By bringing many children together it gives a chance for the child to develop his social nature in a group of his own age. That the school at Midway is a success is to put the matter lightly. A school that has enrolled fifty new pupils this year, that has added fifty children to the school population of Midway, that makes the renting of any kind of house in the town an impossibility, that in two and a half years does not show a scratched nail or desk, is a huge success.

Does all this answer the question of investment? Can any one ever figure exactly what stronger men and women in a community are worth? The school cost the community $20,000. Is the money a good investment for Midway? The answer can only come by asking any of the residents in the district of those who are willing to send their children live or six miles and pay extra tuition to have them in a real live twentieth century school.

Stories of the Town

Things Serious and Frivolous Told About on the Streets of the County Hub.

CHASED BY THE SHERIFF

"As have just said," went on Zebulum, continuing story of his adventure. "While I was walking leisurely down the road, attired in good Mrs. Molen's Sunday dress and hat, admiring the autumn leaves as they waved in beautiful tints of brown and purple and yellow and red, and singing my little lye song, the sheriff followed by the town marshal, the deputy, Solomon Wiggleford and Highfield Jones, bunched and in disorder, came in a wild rush down the road toward me, all waving their hands and yelling and cavoring and pawing the earth like Kickapoo Indians on the warpath!"

"When they had got within a little distance of me, however, they stopped their wild antics, as became the officials of the great county of Crittenden in the presence of a lady, and came up silently, save the tramp, tramp of their heavy feet and the puff, puff of their over-worked respiratory organs."

"Good afternoon, lady," said the sheriff, politely, as they came up behind me.

"Good afternoon," I replied, turning around and bowing in their direction. As soon as I turned around I knew Jobo-bless his neighborly soul—had faithfully carried out my instructions. The sheriff had on Nibbs' light gray suit of clothes! Except they were about four inches too short in the legs, they fitted him very nicely.

"There are mighty dad-gummed few men and women in this county, by grit, that I can't call by name when I meet up with 'em," said the sheriff, staring at me, and scratching his head in perplexity, "but somehow I'll be ding-blasted if I can place you, my good girl."

"My name is Annie Lightfoot," I replied; "and there's no wonder (tee-hee!) that you don't recall my name. Everybody says (tee-hee!) that I've grown awfully in the last year."

"That must be the reason, Miss Annie," returned the sheriff, "and hereafter I will take care that I know you, by making ample allowance for expansion, in length and otherwise."

"You ought to, (tee-hee!)" I said, "I knew you as soon as I saw you, you are the sheriff, aren't you?"

"You have diagnosed my case thoroughly, Miss Annie," he answered; "I am the sheriff of Crittenden county, and my friends here are the town marshal, the deputy and Messrs. Wiggleford and Jones."

"I am quite glad to meet you all," I said, as I smiled and bowed in their direction. I did not offer them my hand, for I kept those tell-tale members as much in the background as possible, being securely hid in the folds of Mrs. Nolen's Sunday dress.

"The four men bowed their acknowledgements of the introduction and four dust-covered hats were tipped, after the most approved style, Highfield Jones eyeing me as if I had been the fat woman in the circus. Does the scoundrel, I reflected, recognize me through my disguise?

"You all look mighty tired and dusty," I said. "Have you started on a fishing excursion, a fox hunt or just a pleasure trip?"

"Neither, Miss Annie," answered the sheriff; "we are after a scoundrel who committed a great crime and is trying to escape justice. Have you seen anything of a young man wearing a brown suit of clothes?"

"Why, yes," I replied, "I saw Zebulum Zimm. He took off down that road toward Cave-in-Rock, like a blue streak. He said he was going to the barn-raising on the next farm. Zebby asked me to go with him, but I wouldn't do it, (tee-hee!) because he and I have been kinder at odds since he got to going with on their girl—a little blue-eyed, brown-haired, dimpled cheeked thing of a thing—not that I cared (tee-hee!) for—if you'll excuse me for speaking metaphorically—there's plenty good fishes in the sea, and (tee-hee!) I can throw out my hook and catch 'em."

"There's no doubt that you can, Miss Annie," admitted the sheriff, "and I don't blame 'em for biting, and biting hard, by grit, but—"

"Oh, Zebby's all right," I interrupted, "and he had on a brown suit of clothes alright, but I know he's not the man you're after, Zebby wouldn't do nothin' wrong. Zebby (tee-hee!) wouldn't throw his shoe at a kittle that was me-owin' and raisin Cain beneath his window at night. He (tee-hee!) wouldn't—"

"Appearances, my dear Miss Annie," interrupted the sheriff, "are often deceitful—especially the appearance of a young man dangling at the end of a pretty girl's trot-line; besides, the fellow evidently has a bad temper. He came into our peaceful town this afternoon, got into a fight with Bobby Broadway, and with malice—either aforethought or posterior—struck Bobby somewhere in the solar plexus regions and, according to Highfield Jones, put his light out."

"Oh, my!" I exclaimed, "I don't believe Zebby did anything like that. He's just come from Tennessee, and I think he's all right. He says he went to school with Bobby Taylor and attended fiddlin' parties with him. He thinks a mighty heap of Bobby Taylor and I shouldn't think he would strike anybody in his solar plexus or any other region, if his name begins with a Bobby, even if it does end with a Broadway."

"That's all-right, Miss Annie," argued the sheriff, "but, as I have said, the fellow has a bad temper. We have the unimpeachable Mr. Highfield Jones as an eye witness that this fellow came to town, got into a fight because of some political differences, struck Bobby Broadway and put the poor fellow's light out."

"Oh, goodness! goodness! goodness!" I exclaimed. "I wouldn't have thought it of 'im. Poor Zebby! (boo-hoo!) Poor Bobby Broadway! (boo-hoo!) And just to think, (boo-hoo!) Zebby used to go with me sometimes (boo-hoo!) and he was so nice (boo-hoo!) and kind (hoo-hoo!) and gentle (boo-hoo!) and lovin' (boo-hoo!) and I didn't know (hoo-hoo!) that I was keepin' company (hoo-hoo!) with a despo (boo-hoo-hoo!) rade."

"Of course, Miss Annie," said the sheriff, sympathetically, while a tear stole down his honest, dust-covered cheek, "when it comes to sweethearts, appearances being so ding-blasted deceitful, a young girl has to take all kinds of chances and run all sorts of risks; and very often when to use a metaphor, she is fishing for bass she catches a lobster."

"And sometimes," spoke up Highfield Jones, "when she throws out her trot-line for shad, she hauls in a devil-fish."

"Like your wife did, for instance," commented the sheriff.

"Well, I've always thought Zebby was a very nice fellow," I said; "but, of course, if he lost his temper and murdered or man-slaughtered poor Bobby Broadway, it's your duty to capture him, if you can."

"Thank you, Miss Annie," said the sheriff, "of course we'll capture him, and if I were your man looking for a sweetheart, by grit, I'd capture you too."

"No you wouldn't (tee-hee!) either," I replied; "I wouldn't (tee-hee!) marry no sheriff! (tee-hee!)—"

"How'd a deputy suit you, Miss Lightfoot?" spoke up the official. "I ain't got no wife, and I'm as lonesome as a—"

"Oh, go off down the road," I interrupted; "I wouldn't marry no (tee-hee!) deputy either, not if he was as lonesome (tee-hee!) as lonesome Lem of the Lonesome Pines. I wouldn't (tee-hee!)—"

"That's right, Miss Annie, (haw-haw-haw!) laughed the sheriff. "That scamp of a (haw-haw-haw!) deputy ain't fit to (haw-haw-haw!) marry a maiden of the Fiji Islands. (haw-haw-haw!) The town marshal, Solomon Wiggleford and Highfield Jones joined with the sheriff in general laugh at the deputy's expense."

"I haven't got nothin' against the deputy," I said, when quietude had been restored, "I guess he's all right, and he'd be very good-lookin' (tee-hee!) if he had the dust washed off his (tee-hee!) face; but I wouldn't (tee-hee!) marry nobody, unless, it might be, (tee-hee!) Benny Brownlow."

"Benny's all right," Miss Annie, said the sheriff, "and if you can rope him, you'd better do it. Squire Brownlow—"

"Oh, I ain't going to rope him," I explained; "he's going to do the roping. I'm the bull thrown in his direction and he's to grab at me. He's the catcher and I'm the (tee-hee!) cathee. I'm his Annie and he's my (tee-hee!) Jo-henny. I'm his tee-hee!"

"I like to hear interesting ladies talk," interposed Highfield Jones, "but, though I don't wish to dictate to the sheriff, I think we'd better be off, chasing the scoundrel who struck Bobby Broadway. That fellow Zebulum is, might say, a slick citizen; and I am confident it is his intention to reach the river, cross over to Cave-in-Rock, Ill., and, while the body of poor Bobby Broadway lies mouldering in the tomb, skip through the states and across the border into Canada, where the plucky Queen Victoria will point a warlike finger at our glorious Uncle Sam and say, 'Let him alone, Samuel, you pipe legged!—'"

"Oh, cut it out, Highfield, interrupted the sheriff. "You make me tired. You're too handy with your mouth. Do you suppose I'm going to let the scoundrel escape?"

"To make me tired, too," said I, "Mr. Jones likes to talk, doesn't he? Just toss and talks, and doesn't say any thing interesting. Some people like to talk. I don't. I'd rather listen. I'd (tee-hee!)—"

"As I was in it saving, Highfield," interrupted the sheriff, "do you think I'd let the scoundrel escape? I'll have him, by grit, if we have to tear up the county, from Weston to the mouth of the Tennessee; from Dycusburg to Bells Mines, and from Piney Fork to the jumping off place!"

"So get yourselves in readiness," continued the sheriff, "line up, holloa your bellows, lubricate your running-gear and get your vocal apparatus in trim. We're off. Goodbye, Miss Annie, and the sheriff moved off down the road toward Cave-in-Rock, followed by the others, Highfield in the rear. As Highfield Jones joined the others he turned and gave me a sly wink, and I knew the keen-eyed scoundrel had penetrated my disguise! I winked back at him."

"Oh, come on, Highfield, confound you," called the sheriff. "What's the use trying to flirt with that young lady? You've got one wife, by grit."

"That's right, Mr. Sheriff," answered Highfield, "and a good one, too; but the affairs of this world are uncertain, at best, and who knows but that she may be ruthlessly called away and I thrown out into the cold, lonesome world, to make another selection amongst the fair daughters of Eve!"

"The sheriff made no reply, and they hustled off down the Cave-in-Rock road in a high trot, on trail of the imaginary occupant of the brown suit of clothes. As soon as they had started, I walked down the Fords Ferry road singing, in a voice that made the woods ring and the little songsters overhead stare at me in wonder, if not with envy:

"When the spring time comes, gentle Annie, And the wild flowers are scattered o'er the plain."

ceived and would come howling back on my trail.

"So on I plunged, determined to make good the advantage I had gained over my pursuers and buoyed with fresh courage and renewed hope of escape. I was now about a mile from the home of Squire Brownlow and a little further from the Ohio river. Could I out-trail my ice-atigable pursuers? I reflected as I ran on, as fast as I could go, my some-what hampered condition. Fortunately, there was plenty of room in the sort of Mr. Nolan's Sunday dress for all kinds of locomotion. There even was a hole in that skirt. It hung in great, loose folds about my limbs or, fanned by the breeze, flapped in the wind behind me as I rushed on."

"As I neared Squire Brownlow's another disturbing problem presented itself to my tired mind and body—what was I to do when I arrived there? Could I go in the house—I, prospective bridegroom, go stalling in where the prospective bride, the sweet, innocent Nell, in her immaculate wedding attire, the minister with his stovepipe hat, and the fun-loving guests were all waiting for me to carry out an important part of their program. I covered with dust and rigged out in Mrs. Nolan's Sunday dress? Even if I should force myself to do so, I reflected before I could make the proper explanations, the sheriff and his party would scoop down on me, like so many vultures, to drag me back, like a dog, to the county seat and to jail."

"As I paused at the end of the lane near the house, great heads of cold perspiration burst out on my weary body. I looked up and down the road, in hope of seeing a friendly male post-e-trian, that I might make another exchange of clothes. There was no one in sight."

"I knew that the hour of four had passed and that they would be watching the road from the house for my appearance. Fearful of being seen from the house if I walked up the lane, I climbed the fence into a field and took my way through the tall weeds toward the back of the house. What would the guests think, I reflected, if they should see a strange looking woman, unbidden and without proper wedding garments, dodging around the premises?"

"A large barn stood a short distance from the house, and I could see that the back door of the building was partly open. I determined to enter the barn as a last hope of a way out of my dilemma. Creeping stealthily up to within a few feet of the barn, I made a wild dash for the door. As I went darting in through the narrow aperture in full force, Benny Brownlow came darting out! Bill! Up against each other we went, like two steam engines making me see all kinds of stars and knocking Benny backward to the floor, sprawling on his back."

"Benny, thinking it was one of the lady wedding guests he had run so unexpectedly into of, bounced to his feet, blushing and begging all kinds of pardons for the accident."

"Benny's maneuvers and the ridiculousness of the situation was too much for even me, with perils before and behind me, to withstand and I burst out into a loud laugh."

"Zebulum Zimm!" exclaimed Benny, recognizing me, "what-in-the-devil-tom."

"Hold on, Benny," I interrupted, "I haven't time to explain now—will do that later. Run to the house, Benny, and bring me your best suit of clothes—quick."

"Don't you see, Zebulum, by gum," answered Benny, "that I've got my best suit on!"

"Well, then, your next best suit—anything in the shape of trousers—run. If you want ever to be my brother-in-law, git!"

"I don't know that I'm aching to be your brother-in-law," replied Benny,

"but as Nell seems to be hankering in that direction, I'll bring you a suit, by gum."

"Benny was Nell's brother and was couple of years older than she. The two were unusually fond of each other and had been almost inseparable since the death of their mother several years before."

"As Benny went toward the house for the clothes, I went into a side corner of the field to await his return. He soon returned to the same, carrying a bundle. As he stepped into the barn I saw that the good-looking boy had exchanged clothes, changing in his best suit."

"I lost no time in getting out of Mrs. Nolan's Sunday dress and putting on Benny's suit. I then went to the house and, with as much composure as I could command, stepped into the hall book rooms, with the minister and a few of the guests and went on into the room where I knew Nell to be. She sat there, a vision of white-robed loveliness waiting to become my bride. She bowed courteously as I entered, but her blue eyes sparkled with the light of love and confidence, and a little blush tinged her pretty cheeks. How could I break the news to her? I reflected; yet it must be done."

"I took a seat by her side and in the presence of Squire Brownlow and some of the others, told them of my situation, of the flight, the striking of Bobby Broadway, the accusation, the flight out of town, the chase of the officers and of my good fortune in escaping so far. They are still after me," I continued, "and my only hope of escape is to get across the Ohio river before they can again overtake me."

"Poor Zebulum!" said Nell, when I had finished, with tears in her eyes, "you cannot go alone. Have Brother Marlow to perform the marriage ceremony and I will go too, as your bride."

"There is no time, little Nell, for that," I replied, gently stroking her soft brown hair, "even now I hear in the distance the yells of my pursuers."

"Oh, I hear their horrid cries!" she exclaimed. "They are coming, Zebulum! fly! fly! and yet," she cried, springing to her feet, "you shall not go without me. There is One who sees the young sparrows when they fall, and He will protect the innocent; I'll go too, and throwing her arms around her brother's neck and pressing her lips to the rugged cheek of Squire Brownlow, she bade them good-bye and joined me in the hall."

"I could not, for the life of me, refuse such congenial company—even if she had asked permission to go with me, which she didn't. Just then Squire Brownlow came out into the hall. 'Zebulum,' he said, 'I don't know of anyone in whose hands I would rather trust my daughter than you; I know you are innocent of any wrong doing and, though I am an officer of the law, I say go and escape—if you can. Flee to the river, cross over and don't stop till you have gained a harbor of safety—even if you have to go across into the territory of the good Queen Victoria, where, as it is said, you will stand 'redeemed, regenerated and disinherited, by the irresistible genius of universal emancipation!' Go, and may God bless you both."

"Buoyed by the confidence placed in me by Squire Brownlow, I took his hand, bade him good-bye, motioned to Brother Marlow and made a wild dash from the house toward the river, followed by Nell and the minister. As we reached the river we saw the sheriff and his party coming down the road, lickety split. Down the river they rushed toward us, whooping and yelling like young Comanches and splitting the road wide open."

"Off down the road toward the river we plunged as fast as our six legs would carry us, in the lead, and Brother Marlow, bringing up the rear; 'We had not gone far until I discovered'

FOR ASSESSOR

We are authorized to announce JOHN L. WOOD, of Shady Grove, as a candidate for Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

We are authorized to announce PHIL S. TRAVIS, as a candidate for Assessor, of Crittenden county, subject to action of the Republican primary, first Saturday in August, 1913.

FOR JAILER

I am a candidate for jailer of Crittenden county subject to the action of the Democratic primary, 1st Saturday
in August, and desire the vote and influence of every vote.

CHARLES W. LOVE.

I am a candidate for Jailer of Crittenden County subject to the action of the Democratic primary, 1st Saturday
in August, and desire the vote and influence of every man who wants a good Jailer.

JOHN CHRISTIAN SPEES.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Jailer of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Republican party in the coming August primary and if nominated I cheerfully promise to make an honest canvass and do all that I can to win in the November election and if elected to faithfully discharge all the duties imposed by law.

VILLIAM ENOCH BELLE.

LOCKOUT.

Hurrah! Its coming! What I told old Smith! Spees is out for jailer. Well now you bet we're going to boost him to the last ounce of our muscles.

There isn't a man in this country but what would vote for
"Old Reliable," soul and body, why? There are one or two things, when looked at by the farmer, make reasons:—First, we, up in this country, belong to the Union and sell our tobacco at Marion. Second, when we get to Marion about midnight half-froze to an icicle and hungry as pack of starved wolves, who's on duty to receive us with
"come right in, men, this way to the fire?" Well now you bet its a fire—not one of these half chunked little bulldog stoves, but a great big heater hot from bottom to top.

What's that feeling that comes creeping up when you're getting warmed up and smell that scent of ham and eggs mixed along with that smell from a well-filled coffee-pot "be there in a minute," that's what Old Reliable says, and first thing we know, we're sitting down to a smoking hot breakfast or what ever you want to call it. Then wouldn't vote for him, huh! Bill says we'd be worse than blacksnakes without teeth.

Who's that fellow that treats you like you were white when you're dead broke and feel like a good meal would make you feel like hitting the road again? Well, we know him up here by the name of Old Reliable.

You just go a head old boy, see who puts the cross on the rooster jailer. We'll hit that rooster so hard, he'll crow forty times a minute.

Guess Shorty has about served his hand at cooking midnight meals for tobacco men. We're going to put him where he can be a friend to all of us. We've had two of the elections, one for President and the other for Postmaster and now we've got to put Old Reliable through for jailer. Got some little time yet but when we discuss it and settle on it good and hard I'll be darned if the whole Republican party from front to rear could turn us. Don't know about the rest but we from the east are down on every thing that looks like a Republican. Now next week let's hear from the west on this here question.

GLENDAL

Ranse Westmoreland moved from his farm (a part of the T.
J. Hoover farm) to the farm of his father-in-law, Chas. Walker, in the R. E. Flanary river bottom farm, last week.

R. H. Thomas, with thirteen boys, saved the most of their corn on the river, by working day and night, few days last week.

Mrs. Hatcher spent Tuesday with her aunt, Mrs. Mat Champion, in the New Salem section.

Mrs. Loren Yates, of Marion, spent last week the guest of Mrs.
Lummie Clark.

Mrs. J. C. Lindsey is convalescent.

Edgar Moore and family and James Moore and family spent Sunday, Jan. 19th, the guests of
Will Moore in the Colon section.

R. C. Moore closed a successful school at this place Friday of last week with a splendid program. Pleas Woodall furnished excellent graphophone music which was enjoyed by the large crowd, present.

Quite a number of people from this neighborhood attended the last day of Miss Clara Hurley's school at Caney Fork, Saturday.

Elbert Thomas spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents near here.

Miss Lora Johnson returned to her home in Marion after having spent a month with her sister, Mrs. Edgar Moore, near here and Mrs. J. M. Phillips of near the Colon.

Miss Stella Flanary attended a pound supper at Marion Davidson's, Friday night.

RODNEY

Lucian Truitt, who has just recovered from a case of small-pox, is up again.

J. N. Truitt is much improved at present. He has been suffering with a wound on his hand.

H. L. Sullivan and wife spent Sunday the guests of D. H. King and wife.

The school at Baker closed
Thursday, Jan. 23rd. Orland Horning, who was the teacher, taught a very successful school.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bennett and daughter, Lillian, were guests of W. H. Black, Sunday.

Arthur Hazel, of DeKoven, was the guest of his parents,
Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hazel, last week.

Nolen Brewer, of Fords Ferry, was in this section Sunday.

Wm. Hughes, Otis Phillips,
W. H. Black, Arthur King and John Phillips, were in Marion Wednesday.

Ethel O'Neal has his house almost completed.

Will Lamb, of Blackford, was through here last week buying timber.

W. H. Black's 1912 crop of tobacco weighed 4365 pounds.
Pretty good for one man. As he had no barn, he was allowed to store it in Marion.

Gus Nunn, our rural route carrier, says he likes a showerbath, but has been getting too many here of late.

We read in the Cottage Grove items where our old friend and schoolmate, Roe Wofford, was sick in Missouri. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Prison For Light Weight.

A judge the other day sent a
New York coal dealer to prison for giving short weight. The driver was given two tickets, one for 4,000 pounds for the customer, the other for 3,000 pounds for the city inspector. The cart had 1,000 pounds short of the two tons he claimed to deliver to the customer. One-half ton of theft in an order of two tons was a pretty deep cut. So the judge fined the dealer $250 and sent him to prison for 20 days.
The high price of coal, almost out of reach of the poor, makes its theft by light weight peculiarily reprehensible. Most men are honest, but the prisons would not be large enough for all who give light weight and short measure.—Christian Herald

PERSONALS

Harvey Clark, who has been living at Morehouse, Mo., has returned to his home in the Fords Ferry section and will remain with us a while.

J. T. Bigham of Crayne, arrived Saturday morning from Louisville, where he went to accompany his father, Harrison Bigham, who went to consult an eye specialist.

Fred Hillyard of Repton left Sunday for Bowling Green, Ky., to enter the State Normal, for the spring term.

S. A. Brightman of the Applegate section of this county, was here last week and reports his section pretty well flooded but no suffering that he knew of.

5 lbs. regular 25c coffee $100 at WILBORN'S GROCERY.

J. R. Brasher and Percy Brasher, two of the Dycusburg sections leading farmers, were here last week to call on the county board of supervisors.

H. S. Newcom of Sullivan, the grader of the Farmers Union tobacco warehouse at that point was here last week calling on the tax supervisors.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Joiner of Chicago, Ill., are the guests of A. M. Henry and wife on Bellville street. Mrs. Joiner before her marriage was Miss Pearl James and is pleasantly remembered by a host of friends here.

An evening of music, mirth and poetry at Auditorium Thursday night, Jan. 30.

Miss Ruth Franklin of Clarksville, Tenn., who has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. L. M. Davidson, left Wednesday for her home.

Dr. Vernon Fox of Crayne returned Thursday morning from Louisville after placing W. H. Bigham under the care of a specialist and seeing him comfortably settled in St. Joseph's Infirmary.

16 lbs. best granulated sugar $100. WILBORN'S GROCERY.

"Music hath its Charms." Come to hear the music makers and be charmed. Auditorium, Jan. 30, promptly at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Fannie Nunn and two handsome little daughters Misses Charline and Annie and son, Lockhart, of Sullivan arrived Friday to be the guest of J. N. Boston and family and R. I. Nunn and family which includes Mrs. Kit Nunn on Bellville St. Mrs. Nunn is the widow of the late John J. Nunn, a brother of R. I. Nunn and Mrs. Boston.

24 lbs. sack best patent flour 75c. WILBORN'S GROCERY.

H. B. Jacobs and wife and children of Toppenish, Wash., were the guests of J. M. Freeman and family last week. They left for Paducah, to visit relatives of Mrs. Jacobs, who was a Kentucky girl and raised at Paducah.

Mrs. Lola Davidson has rented one half of Yates Bros. Furnishing store and will open a first class millinery store in the coming spring, she has associated with her Miss Maude Flanary, one of Marion's finest girls and the firm will be "Davidson and Flanary." They are now in the East selecting their stock and will visit all the leading millinery markets before returning home.

W. H. Bigham, who is under treatment of Dr. A. O. Pfingst, an eye specialist of 706 Atherton building, Louisville, Ky., is still at St. Joseph's Infirmary, where he is being treated. An operation was performed last week removing a cataract and while his eye is bound up and he can't see yet, the doctor gives him much encouragement. His friends in this vicinity all hope that his sight may be restored.

Squire J. R. Postlethweight, who accompanied his sister, Miss Mandana M. Postlethweight, to Evansville to consult a specialist as to her eyes, returned last week bringing his sister with him. Dr. Raydin, whom they consulted did not advise an operation and gave her little encouragement as to the restoration of the sight of the diseased member. Her friends will be distressed to know this and will sympathize with her greatly in the loss of the sight of one of her eyes.

Steamer Jude of Evansville, passed up Tradewater river by Blackford Sunday to collect up ties and other railroad timber. She tied up Sunday night a little below Fish Trap and after taking on her load returned toward the mouth of the river.

I buy Chickens, Geese, Ducks, Turkeys, Guinies, Peafowls, Rabbits, and O'Possums also Eggs, Butter Lard Tallow, Beeswax, Bacon, Wool, Feathers, Hides, Furs' and all kinds of produce. Come to see me. —C. R. Newcom Next door west of Carnahan Bros. & Dodge.

Mrs. Wallace Clift and son Wallace jr. will leave in a few days for Ohio to visit her parents for several weeks before proceeding to Texas to join her husband.

John C. Wolfe of Evansville was in the city last week en route south on a business trip, the first in several months as he has been confined at home with rheumatism from which he is now perfectly recovered.

Geo. Swansey of Nashville, Tenn., arrived in the city a few days ago for an indefinite visit to his many friends.

Wilbur V. Haynes, of Nashville, Tenn., arrived this week to join his wife here and together they will take a trip for the benefit of his health which has not been good of late.

W. T. Nation has a hand of tobacco that measures 32 inches long. Who can beat it?

Are You Satisfied?

This is the heading of a card that will reach the public soon. It concerns the conditions existing in the seating arrangements of the auditorium of the school. Every body who attends any public exercise at the school is acquainted with the kind of seats that are used.

There is not a meeting place in our town more frequented. It is occupied by four hundred children every morning besides dozens of times each year when it is used by hundreds of citizens. If the chairs in your own home were in such condition you would do something immediately. What are you going to do about it? It is hoped that there will be a literal response to this call.

Read the card below and make up your mind to the extent of the price of at least one opera chair.

ARE YOU SATISFIED?

Our grandfathers were not satisfied with split-leg benches; they learned to build wooden desks for children.

Our fathers were not satisfied with wooden desks; they bought patent seats for their children.

Are you satisfied to continue using noisy, uncomfortable, dilapidated makeshifts in the Auditorium when we might have noiseless, comfortable, modern opera chairs at a slight expense?

I am so dissatisfied with the present seats in the Auditorium that I am willing to put in opera chairs at $1.75 each. It is agreed that I shall pay the amount pledged within 30 days provided there are enough pledges to secure 400 chairs.

Held Mass Meeting.

At a mass meeting held at Madisonville last Saturday, said to have been attended by more than four hundred tobacco growers, that have not pooled their tobacco in any organization, a resolution was passed to stand with the association for eight cts. and if the buyers refused to pay it to cut out the crop entirely this year. There was only one condition to the agreement, that was that a farmers union pool in that county should also join with the Association to stand for eight cents or cut out the crop. It seems to us that the independent growers of Hopkins are doing the sensible thing, and we have enough confidence in the farmers union there to believe that they will not desert their neighbors and go against their own interest by failing to join the movement.

Why can't the independent growers and union pool of Crittenden county do the same thing. This is a nice clean crop of tobacco. It is well worth the eight cents asked by association. The buyer will give it if he cannot get it for less. If he can get it for less he will do so. That is business. If the growers do not all stand together he will get it for much less.

Why cannot we all, Association, Farmers Union and Indepen-

MAKES WORLD'S RECORD

Raised 686 Pounds of Potatoes in 308 Hills From One Potato.

A lad in the outskirts of Albany, New York, and only twelve years of age, has made a world record. The state fair board offered a prize for the largest yield from one seed-potato. Each contestant was furnished one potato of a special and unusual variety in his part of the state.

Eugene Drenth raised and exhibited 686 pounds of potatoes, twelve bushels, of contest quality and size and left at home, unweighed, about two bushels of non-exhibitable size. So far as known, this is fully twice the yield ever before known from one potato.

The Corset that don't rust, we have them to fit any form, carried in stock to $2. Will order Special from $1. to $10. Sold by Taylor & Cannan

"The potato had fourteen eyes. Each of these was planted in a hotbed. When the sprout was about three inches high, he cut it off and placed it in sand, where it took root. Durand then set it out in soil adapted to potatoes. The sprouts kept on growing, and he kept on rooting them, and then transplanting them, and great was the harvest thereof."

Does Friendship Do This For You?

In the February American Magazine David Grayson, writing one of his new "Adventures In Contentment," makes this comment:—

"It may be true for some natures, as Leonardo said, that 'if you are alone you belong wholly to yourself; if you have a companion, you belong only half to yourself'; but it is certainly not so with me. With me friendship never divides: it multiplies. A friend always makes me more than I am, better than I am, bigger than I am. We two make four, or fifteen, or forty."

Could Shout For Joy.

"I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," wrote C. B. Rader, of Lewisburg, W. Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters, in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. It suited my case as though made just for me." For dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice, and to rid the system of kidney poisons that cause rheumatism Electric Bitters have no superior. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50 cents at Haynes & Taylor's and James H. Orme's.

To Tease Husband, Hides in a Trunk; Suffocated.

Amesbury, Mass., Jan. 29.—To tease her husband, Mrs. Alphonse Victorine concealed herself in a trunk as she heard him enter the house last Tuesday. As the cover dropped over the bolt of the old fashioned lock slipped into its place, and in a few hours the woman was dead from suffocation. This is the theory of Medical Examiner F. C. Hurd, who performed an autopsy today after a three days' search by the police had revealed the hiding place of the unfortunate wife.

A Spade is A Spade.

There are two kinds of competition in our commercialism to-day—fair and unfair; the first is constructive and progressive, the last is destructive and an affront to the good judgement of a buyer.

It often occurs that a physician's advice is thwarted and a patient's progress retarded by an unthinking drug clerk who succeeds in substituting a preparation of questionable potency or ingredients for one of recognized and known value. It is, indeed, a serious offense and one which should be promptly rebuked by every intelligent person.

A conspicuous instance in the substitution of inferior emulsions of cod liver oil for the tried and proven medical worth of Scott's Emulsion, which physicians know contains a standard, superior grade of cod liver oil, and is not contaminated with alcohol or opiate of any sort. These substitutes are often compounded by unscientific process, in unsanitary places and exist only by the unfair brand of competition which trades on the popularity and proven value of a really meritorious article.

It is high time for the intelligence of buyers to assert itself and know when a spade is a spade.—Advertisement.

Ten Modern Commandments.

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside appears the following:

"I will study the language of the gentleness and refuse to use words that hurt and tones that crush."

"I will practice patience at home lest my testy temper break through unexpectedly and disgrace me."

"I will remember that my neighbors have troubles enough to carry without loading mine on them."

"I will excuse others' faults and failures as often and fully as I expect others to be lenient with mine."

"I will cure criticism with commendation, close up against gossip and build healthy loves by service."

"I will be a friend under trying tests and wear everywhere a good-will face unchilled by aloofness."

"I will gloat over gains never but amass only to enrich others, and so gain a wealthy heart."

"I will love boys and girls, so that old age will not find me stiff and sour."

"I will gladden my nature by smiling out loud on every fair occasion and by outlook optimism."

"I will pray frequently, think good things, believe men and do a full day's work without fear or favor."

A Mother and Father

Who Have Changed Places.

In the February Woman's Home Companion appears an interesting contribution entitled "The Upward Fight" which is made up of true stories of work and sacrifice collected in the "slums" of a great city. Following is one of the stories, showing what a mother will do for her children in the face of great obstacles:—

The Whites were ambitious for their children. The father with his good wages as a painter, and the mother with careful and clever managing, succeeded in giving to their boys and one little girl a wholesome and happy childhood. The little ones were vigorous, energetic and ready to learn. They did excellent work at school. The teachers were proud of them. Two happier parents could not be found, life was rich in its promises for them and they both felt they could not work too hard to be worthy of their blessings.

"But one day while the father was painting the cornice of a five story building a rope gave way. He fell from the scaffolding, and the next thing he knew he was lying helpless on a hospital bed. After ten weeks he returned to his home minus a leg. During that period his union gave him some aid, but that was soon discontinued, for the union could not provide for a permanent cripple.

What he received from his employer was just enough to buy him a crutch, after he paid his lawyer's fees. Three weeks of illness had eaten up all the family's resources; every-thing was sold or in the pawn shop. Starvation stared them in the face, and all their plans for their children seemed about to fall to ruin. Day and night the couple thought what they should do. The father could not get a regular job—nobody wanted a cripple. But finally the parents found a solution. They exchanged places. He became the housewife, she became the bread-winner. He now hobbles around the flat on one crutch, cooking, washing dishes and caring for the children. She leaves home at six every morning, and works till nine at night as a cook in a restaurant. It is a hard, sad life but the children are getting their education."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

Deafness, as they say, is incurable. It is a cruel way to die, and that is by constitutional weakness. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or lap of hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and its cause restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. It is a case of ten are caused by Catarrh of the Eustachian tube, but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

SCHOOL CHILDREN

should have rich, red blood and sturdy, healthy bodies to withstand cold rains, changing seasons and winter storms.

If your child is weary when rising—lacks energy and ambition—has no appetite or possibly sallow skin or a pinched face—it is for want of vital body-nourishment; this growing period demands special, concentrated, easily digested food for body-development—mental strain—physical changes.

Scott's Emulsion is the greatest body-builder known—it is nature's wholesome strength-maker—without alcohol or stimulant—makes rosy cheeks, active blood, sturdy frames and sound bodies.

PRESENT DAY EMANCIPATION

The Drudgery of Farm Life a Thing of the Past.

KEEP THE BOYS AT HOME.

Make Them Industrious, Thoughtful and Independent and They Will Want to Stay—The Corn Club is Best Agent in Keeping From the City.

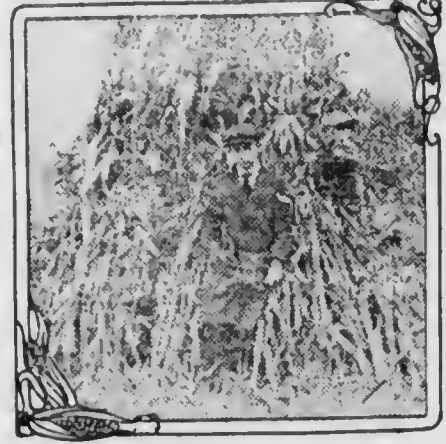

Gradually through the onward march of the centuries mankind has learned that slavery, the buying and selling of human beings, doesn't pay. Mankind has learned that no human being develops to its highest and best unless it is free. It must know and feel that it is constructing its own marvelous destiny.

The child doing almost meaningless chores, the boy slaving the hot summer day through for his father, the girl at work in the garden for the benefit of the family, are one and all in a measure enslaved. Of course everything in the child's life cannot be made easy and pleasant, but to force the child to feel that he or she is the physical slave to the family interest must hurt and dwarf its growth.

Go out into the country when the vacation sunshine is making vegetation tremble in its eagerness to grow and chat with some farmer's son, a little fellow still in the grades. If you should ask him about the future he is almost sure to say enthusiastically, "I'm going to town to work the very first chance I get. I'm tired—dead tired—of the farm all right."

Why does he say it? Why does he believe he will be happier in the city than in the country? He says it and believes it because he has never got anything more than his "board and keep" out of it all the early rising and hard work he has known.

Wherever the boy has had an opportunity to grow a crop of his very own he has shown that he is industrious, painstaking, thoughtful and mentally alert. Under such conditions he is a free man, working out his own profit.

AN EMANCIPATED BOY.

lem, earning his own money and growing mentally, as any free agent must. This is not a fancy or fine spin theory trying to set aside the accumulated wisdom that the ages have striven to give us in the rearing of the youth of our land. It is the experience that a few short years in the Boys' Corn clubs has given us. It has shown us that boys, mere lads of ten years, who have worked listlessly for their fathers in fields that produced at best forty or fifty bushels of corn to the acre, can be transformed into wide awake youngsters producing from 50 to 100 bushels of good corn to the acre.

Let the children be freed, not because their labors have been too heavy, but that they may find themselves in a larger and finer manhood and womanhood, that will make our country life into something better than it ever has been in the past.

Breeding Tells.

An expert in corn judging was looking over a county exhibit to select the best ten ears. He had inspected the display carefully twice, when he hesitated and looked puzzled. He started to speak, but stopped and examined critically two piles of ten ears each which were merely known to him by their tag numbers. At last he touched the two piles and said: "I am going to hazard an opinion. These two piles of corn are Johnson county white, and they have been grown from the same lot of seed corn."

Again he inspected the corn in both piles, while the few people in the room watched him with increasing interest. He smiled as he again began to speak. "Yes," he said, "I am absolutely certain of my first two statements, and I am going to make a third. The seed corn from which both of these exhibits were grown was not brought from a distance, but was selected and grown by an expert somewhere in their neighborhood."

Several of the bystanders laughed at such a sweeping statement. When the prizes had been awarded and the notebook which held the names and numbers of the exhibits had been consulted it was found that the corn had been grown by brothers. The seed had been grown by their father, who had been a student of seed corn for eight or ten years.

IF THE FARMER IS UNWILLING TO HANDLE SCRUB STOCK OR RAZOR BACKED HOGS HE SHOULD ALSO BE UNWILLING TO GROW SCRUB CORN.

Stories of the Town

erred that Nell—bless her brave little heart—though she tried with might and main to keep up, was not, when it came to running, a match for myself or the fleet-footed Brother Marlow.

"On rushed our pursuers, like an infuriated mob, behind us. I saw they were gaining on us, and I clenched my teeth with indignation and renewed determination. Taking one of Nell's soft little hands, while Brother Marlow took the other, on we went with increased speed and renewed hope. Down the road toward Ford's Ferry we sped like a blue streak, lickety split, three abreast, Brother Marlow, with his stove-pipe hat in one hand and clinging to Nell's with the other, his long legs flying like windmill-blades and his feet kicking up all the loose stones in the road, Nell with her beautiful brown tresses all in disorder and flapping in the breeze behind her, her blue eyes sparkling with excitement and the newness of things and her little feet pitter patter against the rough road, but hitting the ground only occasionally, in high places."

EDITOR'S NOTE—This interesting adventure, as told by Zebulon himself, will be continued in this department of the Record-Press next week.

LUNG DISEASE

After four years I finally had died of consumption. I was taken with a terrible cough and lung trouble. I was saved and I gained my health by using

MANMOTH CAVE ESTATE

Assessed at $300,000 World-Beating Hole-in-The Ground Belongs to Three Sisters.

Brownsville, Ky., Jan. 29.—(Special.)—The Edmonson Co., Board of Supervisors is session here has placed an assessment valuation of $300,000 upon the Mammoth Cave estate. In addition to the cave the estate consists of 2,000 acres of valuable timbered lands.

On October 8, 1839, Franklin Gorin and Louisa F. Gorin his wife of Glasgow, Ky., conveyed to Dr. John Grogran, of Jefferson county, 1,610 acres of land in Edmonson county including the Mammoth Cave at the purchase price of the $10,000. Dr. Grogran devised by the will some years later this estate to his three daughters during their life, stipulating that at the death of the last survivor the estate should be sold. The three daughters are yet living having their homes in Minnesota. The youngest is said to be past 80.

This remedy has no superior for coughs and colds. It is pleasant to take. It contains no opium or other narcotic. It always cures. For sale by all dealers.

Babies By Mail? Well

Here's A Possibility.

Washington, Jan. 29.—From Ft. McPherson, Ga., comes a request to Postmaster General Hitchcock for a ruling upon how babies may be sent by parcels post. The writer of the inquiry wants to adopt a baby living in Pennsylvania, and he wants to make sure that it will arrive safely in Georgia. Babies have not yet been admitted in the parcels class.

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

"I am very glad to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy" writes Mrs. Lida Dewey, Milwaukee, Wis. "I have used it for years both for my children and myself and it never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. No family with children should be without it as it gives almost immediate relief in cases of croup." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is pleasant and safe to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by all dealers.

A Perfect Christmas Day

Henty W. Grady's Famous Editorial in the Constitution on the Day of All-Young Christmas, 1888.

No man or woman now living will see again such a Christmas day as the one that closed yesterday, when the dying sun pilled the western skies with gold and purple.

A winter day it was, shot to the core with sunshine! It was enchanting to walk abroad in its prodigal beauty, to breathe its elixir, to reach out the hands and plunge them open fingered through its pulsing waves of warmth and freshness. It was June and November welded and fused into a perfect glory that held the sunshine and the snow beneath tender and splendid skies. To have winnowed such a day from the teeming winter was to have found an odorous peach on a bough whipped in the storm of winter. One caught the musk of yellow grain, the flavor of ripened nuts, the fragrance of strawberries, the exquisite odor of violets—the aromas of all seasons in the wonderful day. The hum of bees underrode the whirling wing of a vanguard flying southward. The fires sput in dressing grates while the people, marveling outdoors, watched the snow waves woo the roses and the lilies.

Truly, it was a day of days! Amid its riotous luxury surely life was worth living. Worth living to hold up the head and breathe it in as thirsting men drink water; to put every sense on its gracious excellence; to throw the hands wide apart and long whole amfufus of the day close to the heart, till the heart itself is enraptured and illumined. God's benediction came down with the day, slow-dropping from the skies. God's smile was its light, and all through and through its supernal beauty and solemnity, unspoken, but appealing to every heart and sanctifying every soul, was His invocation and promise: "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men."

A Pretty Good Egg.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, who is starting a new department called "Health and Horse-Power," in the February American Magazine, tells this story about Whistler, the caustic-witted and famous artist:

"Whistler, when someone praised in his hearing a colleague as a 'pretty good colorist,' tapped him gently on the shoulder with the question, 'My dear fellow, how would you like to be a pretty good egg?'"

Attached By Cow.

Hodgenville, Ky., Jan. 29.—Mrs. W. G. Dezarn, wife of the owner of Lynn Milling Company, was attacked by an enraged cow as she was crossing the barnyard at her home. Mrs. Sig Loeb, a neighbor, saw the animal strike Mrs. Dezarn and ran to her assistance, driving off the infuriated animal. Mrs. Dezarn's injuries are not considered of a serious nature, though she suffered a severe nervous shock.

SEVEN SPRINGS

Rev. J. C. Kinsolving, of Emmaus, passed through this section Saturday enroute to Dycusburg to fill his appointment at that place. Bro. Kinsolving has been called to the pastorate care of the Dycusburg Baptist church for the year 1913, and probably will accept the call.

Mr. Elkins, of near Marion, was the guest of Ellis Dalton last week.

Mr. Ward closed his school at this place Friday. He has taught us an excellent school and we regret very much that he and his estimable wife will go from our community back to their home place to reside. We would be pleased if this district could secure the service of Mr. Ward for our next term of school at this place. He is a good instructor and well qualified and has had many years of experience in teaching, which adds much to his management in the school room.

Carl Bell was a caller near Tiline Sunday. We believe there must be some attraction at that place for Mr. Bell, as he seems to make frequent visits to that point and he never lets the high water get in his way.

Tom Phillips has moved from this place to Paducah.

Jim Patton and family, of Caldwell Springs, were guests of relatives here Sunday.

Robt. Holder is in Smithland this week.

Mrs. Tommie Howard is very sick, at this writing.

Mason Patton, of Mexico, Ky., was the guest of Roy Campbell Sunday.

REPTON.

Quite a large crowd of our boys and girls went to Marion Thursday to stand the examination on Friday and Saturday for common school diploma. Those who went from here were Misses Locke Powell, Dada Duvall, Ruby Vaughn, Flora Moore, Eunice Jones and Ora Carrick and Mesdames Pratt Stanley, Willard King and Jeffie Samuels.

Miss Allie Wilborn spent Friday night and Saturday with Miss Bertha Moore.

W. K. Powell, who has been spending a week with relatives in Union Co., returned home Sunday.

Fred H. Hillyard, of near here, left Sunday for Bowling Green to attend the State Normal. Mr. Hillyard is a very successful young teacher and makes friends where ever he goes.

Miss Locke Powell spent Sunday with Miss Eunice Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith entertained a number of young people Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Allie Wilborn, who was their guest Tuesday night.

CROOKED CREEK.

Mrs. G. W. Arflack died, Jan. 22nd, and was buried the following day at the McMican graveyard. Bro. McNeeley preached her funeral Sunday.

Uncle Jim Gass is very sick. He had a light stroke of paraly-

Miles Watson and family spent Sunday at the home of Leonard Lynn.

Sallie Watson, who has been spending the past week with her son, Dellar, returned home Sunday.

Etha Tharp spent Sunday with his parents, Billy Tharp, of near Irma.

Charles Durham moved to the Dock Wheeler place.

Most of the tobacco growers are through stripping tobacco and are ready to sell.

Our school closed Friday, and a good crowd was present and a nice time was enjoyed. We spelled in the forenoon, and awhile in the afternoon and then we had a few talks from the patrons then a talk from our teacher, Herschel O. Franklin. He taught us one of the best schools we have ever had taught at this place. All his pupils love him, and many of them cried when they bid him good bye.

YEAR BOOK of Stark Bro's Nurseries & Orchards Co. MAILED TO YOU FREE

Just say on a Postal Card: "Send me a copy of Stark Year Book for 1913." When writing, also tell us how many trees, shrubs, vines, etc., you will probably plant this season.

This Year Book is more than a mere catalogue of Stark nursery products, it is a practical easy to understand text book for the guidance of the man who plants trees. Our own experience of nearly 100 years, the reports of experiment stations and the opinions of planters from all sections are condensed and reproduced for the benefit of busy people. An encyclopedia of orchard information, containing full size color illustrations of gloriously tinted fruits and many photographic reproductions in black and white; also information on many subjects in which the orchardist is interested.

Hundreds of varieties of apples, pears, peach, plum, cherry, apricot, quince, grape and all small fruits are described; weaknesses of each variety are pointed out and good points are explained. We feel that planters should know both.

Those interested in growing fruits or flowers or shrubs or shade trees will find this book of inestimable value; totally different from the average nurseryman's publications. It is a book you will keep for reference, and one on which you can depend as being absolutely accurate. Write today for your copy.
